Born in London, England, Ricardo was the third of 17 children of a Sephardic Jewish family of Portuguese origin who had recently relocated from the Dutch Republic. His father, Abraham Ricardo, was a successful stockbroker. He began working with his father at the age of 14.

David Ricardo - Wikipedia

David Ricardo (17 July 1772 – 9 September 1823) was an English political economist, philosopher, businessman, and journalist. He is best known for his work on comparative advantage and the theory of rent. Ricardo's work on comparative advantage is one of the most influential in the history of economics. He argued that countries should specialize in producing goods in which they have a comparative advantage, and then trade with other countries. This theory has been widely accepted and is a cornerstone of modern trade theory.

Blowing from a gun - Wikipedia

Blowing from a gun was a method of execution in which the victim was typically tied to the mouth of a cannon which was then fired. George Carter Stent described the process as follows: The prisoner is generally tied to a gun with the upper part of the small of his back resting against the muzzle.
