Habituation is an example of non-associative learning in which the strength or probability of a response diminishes when the stimulus is repeated. The response is typically a reflex or unconditioned response. Thus, habituation must be distinguished from extinction, which is an associative process. In operant extinction, for example, a response declines because it is no longer followed by a reward.

Language acquisition is the process by which humans acquire the capacity to perceive and comprehend language, as well as to produce and use words and sentences to communicate. Language acquisition is one of the quintessential human traits, because non-humans do not communicate by using language. Language acquisition usually refers to first-language acquisition, which studies infants ...

Update August 2018: A newer, more complete introduction to React's fundamentals is available at my course "React (without the buzzwords)". It uses the latest version of React, and covers many topics that "Learn Raw React" is missing, including component state, asynchronous data storage, JSX, structure best practices, and more.

Learn React by itself -- no JSX, no Flux, no ES6, no Webpack.

Redux helps you write applications that behave consistently, run in different environments (client, server, and native), and are easy to test.
